Merger Control Regimes in Emerging Economies Marco Botta, 2011-01-01 When emerging economies draft competition law and begin to enforce it they usually draw on the EU and US competition law systems However significant country specific legal and practical variations tend to arise quickly making it imperative for international business lawyers to acquire more than a passing knowledge of competition legislation and relevant case law in these countries Now for the first time a thoroughly researched book provides an in depth empirical analysis of the legal problems raised for competition and especially for merger control and its enforcement in emerging economies using a case study approach in the Brazilian and Argentinean contexts to reveal paradigmatic trends Brazil and Argentina are chosen not only because they are among the major trading jurisdictions in the developing world but also because they have each established a track record of over a decade in formulating and enforcing a system of merger control The author describes and analyses all Brazilian and Argentinean legislation in the field of competition law as well as the main merger decisions adopted by the competition authorities and the judgements held by the courts of these countries The book thoroughly covers the system of competition law currently enforced in each country as well as the main innovations of proposed new competition law currently pending in Brazil In addition the author draws on field interviews with competition lawyers and officers of competition authorities conducted between April and July 2008 in Buenos Aires Brasilia and S o Paulo The analysis considers such issues as the following y impact of M y enforcement of competition law and the judiciary y criteria for notification of economic concentrations y application of econometric tests to define the relevant market and the degree of market concentration

Seldorf language English abstract

The growing interdependence of countries and internationalization of companies is one of the most extensively discussed topics of the last decades. Not only international trade has risen strongly but also foreign direct investments (FDI) have been increasingly conducted by expanding companies worldwide. Companies widening their range by seizing opportunities internationally are most likely able to fuel their growth, whereas the position of organizations that only operate nationally is continuously weakened. Therefore, especially big multinational corporations from developed countries like Nestlé or Unilever strive to steadily expand their global presence in order to thrive in a highly competitive global market. Whereas emerging countries like China or India are popular to invest in for MNCs, internationalization is increasingly including companies from those developing nations as well. Additionally, those Emerging Market Multinationals (EMNCs) are not only gaining power on an international level but are also becoming effective local competitors for multinationals in their home markets. Hence, losing their market shares to the local competition, MNCs are forced to rethink their strategy in emerging markets. According to the new challenges multinationals have to face in developing markets, the following paper aims to analyze the competitive environment in emerging countries and thus derive promising approaches for MNCs to successfully stabilize their position. The analysis will be based on a theoretical background including the description of general reasons for internationalization, foreign direct investments as an entry mode, as well as the Being International Strategies according to Bartlett and Ghoshal (1989) and broader relevant models. Afterwards, the current situation and competitive environment in emerging markets will be outlined. The analysis itself will be conducted on the example of Nestlé in the Chinese market in order to further assess MNCs' position in developing countries. After giving a short company introduction, the Chinese food processing industry as well as Nestlé's internationalization strategy will be examined. In order to further assess the company's position and performance in China, Porter's 5 forces framework will be applied. To conclude, general implications for the competitive situation in emerging markets and MNCs' strategies, as well as an evaluation of Nestlé's position in China, are derived and outlined.

Strategy and Planning David Hussey, 1999-08-10 One of a manager's most critical tasks is to develop strategy, and although thinking on strategy is constantly shifting, the underlying issues remain the same. Strategic planning is a task that exists in organizations of all sizes and at various levels of responsibility. This exceptionally useful and concise book provides essential information for managers and practitioners of strategic management, particularly those requiring a bird's-eye view of the whole subject who have neither the time nor inclination to read the encyclopaedic tomes that are currently available. The style is practical without sacrificing integrity, and references are made to important sources in the literature. The book provides a framework for thinking about strategy which can be used as the basis for a written plan should this be needed However it is not assumed that the end product of strategic thinking is always a written plan although this is often the case Whether the plan is written or memorised the steps and methods outlined in this book will help managers to develop a sound strategy After taking the reader through a number of issues and steps in the development of corporate strategy the book explores strategic thinking in the context of marketing manufacturing finance and human resources The final chapter is optional for those who are interested in an ongoing process of strategic planning

Strategic Market Planning Derek F. Abell,John S. Hammond,1979 Strategic Management ,2005 The Role of the Academic Economist in Litigation Support Daniel Jonathan Slottje,1999 This book presents a series of chapters by several leading economists on how to perform economic analysis in support of litigation matters For many years academic economists consulted in litigation matters but most did not discuss it as it was regarded as not pure economic research As more national economics consulting firms were established specializing in litigation and primarily made up of academic economists the stigma if ever there was one disappeared More than likely young applied economists will not think twice now about working for a consulting firm or even a consulting firm which specializes in litigation This book examines exactly what forensic economists actually do All the contributors have endeavored to stress the importance of using the economist toolbox properly all with sterling results As young economists contemplate a litigation consulting or any private sector career versus an academic one it is hoped that this book will demonstrate that it is possible to achieve excellence in both fields

a number of serious drawbacks as it stands Most worryingly its revised interpretation of the law is to large extents incompatible with the case law of the European Court of Justice which has not been swayed by the exclusive consumer welfare aim This situation is undesirable from the point of view of legal certainty and the rule of law Basic Contract Law for Paralegals Jeffrey A.
