1. That solitude is coming to an end. People don't know how to be by themselves and just reflect on who you are. I think people are having a harder time to be alone because they are always connected to others.
2. When people take the time to connect to a higher being they are refreshing who they are as a person and "refreshing that norm". Because people are using social media as a way to not have a moment to reflect on who they are. They are using it as a type of distracter. They turn the internet into their own personal world instead of focusing on the one they currently live in.
3. I think it can be, but at the same time I don't agree. I think some people want to be known and their goal is to get a lot of followers, but at the same time I don't think everyone cares about it. No. I think before social media people still had a want to be known and liked and to have a physical reminder they can look at to say oh I have a lot of friends or oh people do like me.
4. I think so. I think everyone needs some time to just be calm and recharge. As humans we are so used to always doing something it's hard to imagine oneself not doing something. I think idle means still being mentally present, but physically relaxed.

Dialogue Journals in the Multilingual Classroom Joy Kreeft Peyton, Jana Staton, 1993 This volume focuses on the use of dialogue journals in classrooms with students from diverse language and cultural backgrounds whose proficiency with spoken and written English is limited The companion volume to Dialogue

Journal Communication Ablex 1988 it carefully describes from a teacher's experience how dialogue journal writing can be effectively implemented in the multilingual classroom with practical tips for starting and maintaining the practice exploiting the benefits and avoiding the pitfalls. It presents a model of researchers working in close collaboration with teachers and shows the development in the journals of individual students with extended examples of student and teacher writing so that teachers can see research results that are not hopelessly extracted from the context in which they were produced. At the same time it has a strong research orientation.

Live Stock Journal, 1906      English Quarterly, 2008      Teaching Language in Context Alice Omaggio Hadley, 1986

Cultivating Thinking in English and the Language Arts Robert J. Marzano, 1991. The author believes that instruction in English and the language arts can nurture the process of teaching. He describes four types of thought that are particularly compatible with English and language arts instruction: 1 contextual thinking, 2 thinking that facilitates the construction of meaning, 3 thinking that enhances knowledge development, and 4 thinking that results in higher order learning. The author maintains that gearing English and language arts instruction to these four types of thought requires significant shifts in both the form and function of instruction. At the same time he says middle school and secondary teachers can better enhance the natural cognitive processes involved in learning. He shows that the teaching and reinforcing or cultivation of thinking has the potential to illuminate the English and language arts content in ways previously not experienced.
