Abstract

The following document gives an analysis and descriptions to mobile phone organization Nokia based in America. It will analyze the internal and external factors that influence the industry, how decision making can be influenced by these factors, evaluation of the organization effectiveness. This document will also look at the area of that industry that requires improvements. All businesses, whatever sector they are in, will have plans, aims and objectives. In some cases these can be very sophisticated but in some small businesses very modest. Whatever they are a business will need to monitor its performance in relation to these goals.

Introduction

The success of the any mobile phone organization relies heavily on a number of internal and external factors. This greatly influences the growth of the organization. Most mobile phone companies develop the phone with the aim of satisfying consumers and they keep on improving the product until people are satisfied. This has led to technological changes in the world. A mobile operator like Nokia introduces new products almost weekly to improve on the product. An industry is an organized activity that functions to produce and manufacture a certain product. Industries normally start to function with the purpose of profit making, creation of employment and this leads to economic growth. They have aims and this are defines as long term goals. They work in order to achieve this aims. The aims could include: make the maximum profit, survive its competitors, work to boost its share price, and make the most use of the revenue. It also has objectives that are used to achieve the aims.(Barnatt, C. 1997:38).

Internal and External Factors that Influence Mobile Phone Industry.

There are some factors that influence the Nokia mobile phone industry. The factors are further categorized into internal and external factors. External factors are those factors that a business cannot control and usually happens outside the organization. They also affect internal factors in the industry as well as objectives of the organization and the strategy it implements. Internal factors are factors that the organization can control and use to solve problems. (Centre for Electronic Commerce: 1996)

External Factors

One of the major factors is competition from outside. The company needs to know the degree from outside. In order to know the degree the industry needs to know how it is

Development analysts tend to give short shrift to the seemingly minor bureaucratic hitches faced by practitioners those who design manage implement and evaluate aid projects Often critical of foreign aid either for its apparent ineffectiveness at alleviating poverty or its purported neocolonial implications the academic literature rarely acknowledges the experiences and pressures faced by practitioners themselves as they implement aid funded development projects the meetings paperwork negotiations site visits financial transactions logistical arrangements interviews program activities and beneficiary interactions that keep projects running And yet the impact of aid projects and indeed the impact of development itself often grows out of the daily activities and personal interactions of development practitioners This unique book considers challenges from the perspective of development practitioners who confront technical managerial political theoretical and moral quandaries on a daily basis With chapters written by expert practitioners on different aspects of design and management of international development activities this book examines real issues and navigates the often contradictory demands of local development needs including international donor imperatives limited financial resources time information and assurance of results the competing pulls of administrative efficiency and the desire to alleviate suffering It also gives readers access to the crucial but little heard voices of those who spend their professional lives designing and managing foreign aid projects offering insight into what did or did not work on projects they have managed implemented or evaluated These insights do not seek to identify universally right or wrong ways of doing development instead they highlight pros and cons associated with various approaches and decisions This book provides valuable insights for students and others interested in a development career encourages practitioners to engage in reflection and persuades researchers to further consider the influence of practice on project success or failure Report of the President of the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Maryland Johns Hopkins University,1929 Farm Management Andrew Boss,Arthur Gordon Ruggles,Edward Monroe Freeman,Frederic Leonard Washburn,George Warren Walker,Rodney Mott West,Thomas Poe Cooper,Wieland Leo
