

QUESTION 1

Manufacture of computers, IT services, IT consulting and IT infrastructure services are the pillars of the new value chain of the IT services company.

QUESTION 2

First thing you should do before the new strategy is approved by the Board is to identify the strategic pillars or fundamental blocks that underpin the business. Having identified the Pillars of the company, identify what has caused the industry-wide changes. Identify the strategic thrusts that need to be pursued, the IBCs. Later, you will identify the Strategic Imperative Company or IBC, the strategic goal "Hybridization" for the newly formed Global Tech.

QUESTION 3

From there, the next necessary step for the Strategic Company is to set an appropriate multi-year operational strategy, investments, investments, and sales, as global, regional, national, and product capabilities. Some critical capabilities include all the Pillars that, through the Business and the IBC, drive the business.

QUESTION 4

Strengths:

1. Development of the IBC Business
2. The growth in the infrastructure services sector is due to the increasing digitization of the world.
3. The realization that IBC businesses should focus on the services that are most profitable.

The strategic focus must be on the growth of the business and the focus on the business must be on the growth of the business.

1. Focus on the IBC and the business. The IBC is the business strategy that drives the business. The growth of the business is driven by the growth of the business, and the growth of the business is driven by the growth of the business.
2. Global strategic thrusts.
3. Strategic thrusts include operational and financial thrusts, customer experience, and digital and effective operations, such as program, self-driven, self-driven, and self-driven.
