Public Or Private Economies of Knowledge? Mark Harvey,Andrew McMeekin,2009-01-01 This book embraces a fundamental issue for the modern information economy namely the creation negotiation and institutionalization of private and public knowledge The authors argue that as new biological knowledge develops the actors must help create and negotiate the boundaries of what can be considered private and public knowledge By using an Instituted Economic Process approach the authors come to grips with these dynamics of the economics of knowledge This approach therefore helps us analyze who is involved who benefits and why conflicts occur within an innovation driven economy The authors provide very interesting empirical material as well because they develop their analytical points through well written and thick descriptions of cases from biodata bioinformatic and a case of gene sequencing Hence this book makes interesting conceptual and empirical contributions to our understanding of modern biological sciences in the economy Maureen McKelvey Chalmers University of Technology Sweden It once was believed that scientific knowledge was public and technological knowledge was proprietary and this was the way it should be However recent developments particularly in biology have unsettled this belief This superb book examines what determines whether a
