If you've been asked to give a public speech, you may wonder what is public speaking and why is public speaking important. Those questions are quite logical if you've never thought much about public speaking before. Public speaking is important in both business education and the public arena. There are many benefits to speaking in public, whether you're an individual or a business. If you ask most people, they'll probably say they don't like public speech. They may even admit to being afraid of it, since fear of public speaking is a very common fear. Or they may just be shy or introverted. For those reasons, many people avoid speaking in public if they can. If you're one of those people who avoid speaking in public, you're missing out. Over the years, public speaking in communication has played a major role in education, government, and business. Words have the power to inform, persuade, educate, and even entertain. And the spoken word can be even more powerful than the written word in the hands of the right speaker.

Public speaking can be fun. You may not think so, but anything in life can be fun if we allow it to be. Even public speaking. There are three groups of people when it comes to the attitude of public speaking: The Naturals, The Converters, and The Avoiders. The Naturals are people who have always enjoyed presenting in front of an audience. They are hardly ever nervous; they are not afraid to show their true personality, and they usually feel very comfortable with all eyes on them when they are speaking. This is the minority, a rare group compared to most people in our society. The Converters are those who have been converted from once hating public speaking or just not liking it very much, or just gosh darn afraid of it, to actually enjoying it and even having fun with it. They went through the process of learning the skills, practicing, and improving. They took action in overcoming their negative attitude and/or fears towards public speaking. They practiced every chance they could, and they began to believe they were capable of being a good or great presenter. These people have learned to actually enjoy public
