Discourse in Content and Language Integrated Learning (CLIL) Classrooms Christiane Dalton-Puffer, 2007 The label CLIL stands for classrooms where a foreign language English is used as a medium of instruction in content subjects This book provides a first in depth analysis of the kind of communicative abilities which are embodied in such CLIL classrooms It examines teacher and student talk at secondary school level from different discourse analytic angles taking into account the interpersonal pragmatics of classroom discourse and how school subjects are talked into being during lessons The analysis shows how CLIL classroom interaction is strongly shaped by its institutional context which in turn conditions the ways in which students experience use and learn the target language The research presented here suggests that CLIL programmes require more explicit language learning goals in order to fully exploit their potential for furthering the learners appropriation of a foreign language as a medium of learning

Discourse and language learning across L2 instructional settings, 2012-01-01 Studies on discourse and language learning originated in the field of general education and they focused on first language learning environments However since 1980s research on discourse and language learning broadened the scope of investigation to respond to second and foreign language environments Recently the emergence of new language learning contexts such as computer mediated communication multilingual settings or content and language integrated contexts requires further research that focuses on discourse and language learning From this perspective the present volume aims to broaden the scope of investigation in foreign language contexts by exploring discourse patterns in the classroom and examining the impact of factors such as gender explicitness of feedback or L1 use on language learning through discourse With that aim in mind this volume will bring together research that investigates discourse in various instructional settings namely those of primary secondary and university L2 learning environments content and language integrated contexts and other new language learning settings The number and variety of languages involved both as the first language e.g English Finnish Basque Spanish Japanese French

Italian Catalan as well as the target foreign language e.g. English, French, Italian, Japanese, Spanish makes the volume specially attractive. Additionally, the different approaches adopted by the researchers participating in this volume, such as information processing, sociocultural theory, or conversation analysis, widen the realm of investigation on discourse and language learning. Finally, the strength of the volume also lies in the range of educational settings (primary, secondary, and tertiary education) and the worldwide representation of contributors across seven different countries, namely those of Spain, France, Austria, Finland, Germany, Canada, Australia, and the United States. The uniqueness of the volume is due to its eclectic and comprehensive nature in tackling instructional discourse. Worldwide outstanding researchers like Julianne House, Carme Muñoz, Ute Smit, Tarja Nikula, or Roy Lyster to quote but a few, adopt different perspectives in this joint contribution that will certainly broaden the scope of research on language learners' discourse.

CLIL Do Coyle, Philip Hood, David Marsh, 2010-04-01

CLIL (Content and Language Integrated Learning) has emerged since the millennium as a major trend in education. Written by Do Coyle, Philip Hood, and David Marsh, and drawing on their experience of CLIL in secondary schools, primary schools, and English language schools across Europe, this book gives a comprehensive overview of CLIL. It summarises the theory which underpins the teaching of a content subject through another language and discusses its practical application, outlining the key directions for the development of research and practice. This book acknowledges the uncertainty many teachers feel about CLIL because of the requirement for both language and subject knowledge while providing theoretical and practical routes towards successful practice for all.
