Data Science in Social Research Uwe Engel, Lena Dahlhaus, 2026-02-02 Society is changing it is becoming more diverse and digital Social media today plays a central role in human communication With a changing society the way social scientists analyze it is also evolving In recent years it has become significantly more difficult to encourage people to participate in surveys Furthermore digitization opens up data options that go beyond the survey method Information published online represents valuable digital behavioral traces and provides social researchers with another important source of data alongside their scientific surveys which in recent years have increasingly been conducted online Computational methods have played a central role in social research from the very beginning This applies today more than ever to data analysis but now also to data collection The increasing attention paid to machine learning methods in the statistical analysis of social science data represents a further remarkable development in the analysis of social science data This textbook addresses these developments and familiarizes readers with both elementary and more advanced methods of data analysis Fundamentals and techniques of data management programming with R statistical data analysis descriptive and causal inference as well as predictive modeling are covered in depth All methods are exemplified using real data either from survey research the social media platform Bluesky or a large digital newspaper archive Thematically these data are focused on current sociological topics particularly those related to human happiness energy transition and climate policy AI political attitudes and the rise in right wing voting Data science encompasses more than the algorithms required for data analysis and statistical learning No less relevant are the rules by which social research and data analysis are conducted data quality is ensured and the results are validated This textbook aims to provide this overview
