Introduction

Design variables provide a method for specifying critical parameters just before a simulation. This allows you to make quick changes to parameter values across single or multiple critical components without having to edit any schematic components. Design variables can also be used in simple parametric analysis, which can change a design variable across a range of values and display multiple simulation results on a single plot.

Using Design Variables

This part of the tutorial will show you how to parametrize the width of the shafts and flange thickness of an armature by using design variables. These variable values are then set using the Running Through Environment panel in simulation.

1. Make a copy of the assembly with subassemblies you have previously designed, or create a new one.
2. Open the subassemblies of the assembly.
3. Start with one of the SHAFTS subassemblies as depicted in, and name the parameters by using clicking on it and entering Proprietor. For you can press "v" as a shortcut.
4. Define the rest of the shafts from prop to 10. This specifies that a variable called prop will be used to set the width of the SHAFTS. When you do this, observe that values for "Thickness Difference Prop" change from a constant value to a formula that involves the variable prop. Always check to make sure that formula is updated when you change the width to a variable otherwise, your simulation results will be incorrect. Click OK to apply the change.
5. Repeat this procedure to change the width of the FLANGE to prop.
6. Save Design to Files and Save. Verify that there are no errors.
7. Launch the Analysis Running Through Environment.
8. Set up the simulation environment as you normally would for simulating a schematic. This includes specifying a simulation file and location that length, creating the APP ID, setting modes in the environment options, and selecting the compute to be plotted on the schematic.
9. In APP, select Variables to Copy Properties. The design variables prop and 10 should appear in the Design Variables area of the Running Environment Window.
10. In APP, select Variables to File, Unlocked on prop. In the main pane, type 1 to 10 and then apply the value by clicking Apply. Change the value of 10 to 10 and click Apply. Check the values have been assigned, click OK. See Figure 1 and 2 below.
11. In APP, use the connection by selecting Simulation to Variable and File. After loading the the simulation to complete, the results window will pop-up. The results should be
